

2006 MERLOT

ACCOLADES

Koepfel On Wine “Refrigerator Wine” - September 23, 2007

VERY GOOD

“This merlot and the shiraz that follows are clearly the best of these six Alice White wines; one feels some presence and personality. The merlot offers an attractive bouquet of ripe and bright black currant and black cherry permeated by smoke and spice; the wine is dense and chewy, vivid with dark fruit flavors that hint at bitter chocolate and licorice, all this cushioned by shaggy tannins. Now through 2009. Terrific Value.”

- F. Koepfel

Wine Spectator “Australia - Other Red” - August 31, 2007

85 POINTS

“Smooth in texture, with a distinct herbal character up front, finishing with plum and chocolate flavors as the oak comes through. Drink now through 2009.”

- H. Steiman

BEST BUY

“... opens with blackberry, black raspberry, blueberry, cherry and smoky oak which repeat as flavors with the fruit not very ripe and the addition of light tannin before a medium-broad medium-long finish. Straight-forward.”

“This simple quaffer offers berry and cherry notes in a balanced package.”

- R. Buckner

Times-Union [Albany, NY] “Sipping” - April 26, 2007

“Ripe plum and cherries on the nose, and a surprisingly supple and balanced body makes this a good value. A simple, solid table wine. Serve with barbecue chicken. Pizza with everything on it will feel comfortable with this wine.”

- F. LeBrun

“Dressed for Spring”

“Ordinarily, I don’t pay too much attention to wine labels. But when I got a look at Alice White’s new spring attire, I was impressed. These budget-priced Australians have been re-outfitted in vibrant yellow, pink, orange and blue, which makes them pretty to have around. Those who buy wine for its flavor instead of the label will appreciate that the entire line of Alice White wines are solid picks in their price range. The merlot and shiraz are especially nice for casual drinking; the sweet, flowery Lexia is a gorgeous pick to pair with spicy Asian foods.”
